Moralists may prate, and doctors prose, and science shout from the housetop, but just so long as the flowers bloom, and maidens' lips are cherry-red, and a young man's eyes look love, just so long the lady and lassies will kiss—and kiss again.

And where, good men, is the harm if the kissers and kissed are healthy, and true love stands sponsor. It is only when ill-health has blasted the sweet cleanliness of youth that death lurks upon its lips. The deadly germs of dread consumption are as harmless as June-time butterflies to the young man or woman who is thoroughly clean, sweet and healthy in every fiber and tissue. The germs of disease only attack that which is already partly decayed.

There is a great medicine that is a sure and certain protection against all germs and a speedy cure for all germ diseases. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It gives youthful zest to the appetite. It corrects all faults of the digestion. It aids assimilation. It fills the blood with the vital, life-giving elements of the food. It builds sweet, clean, healthy tissues in every part of the body. It drives out all disease germs. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of bronchitis, throat and lung affections if taken in time. All good medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

Mr. Jos. Henderson Dirblun, of 544 Josephine Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I was suffering for some two years, suffering from dyspepsia, a tired feeling, and loss of energy and appetite. I tried one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and found great relief. I took two more bottles, three in all, and one or two vials of the 'Pellets,' when was in good health again. I recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to do all that it is claimed to do."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

Carving the Yosemite Valley.
In a recent article on the origin of the Yosemite valley, Professor W. P. Blake—a most adequate authority on the subject—remarks that the gorge, so grand and impressive, is, in fact, only a minor feature of the glacial workings above it through hundreds of square miles of the Sierra. Professor Blake thinks that the ice must have filled the gorge, and much above it, to a thickness of 5,000 feet, and with a pressure upon the floor of the valley of 120,000 pounds to the square foot; the tremendous force of such a weight, on the under surface of which was a broken mass of rock, like diamonds in a drill, grinding, planing and cutting, can scarcely be imagined; for untold ages, too, this mighty force was at work, polishing the face of the country through which it passed.

The character of the Yosemite rock being granite, close grained and vertical in structure, with points of easy fracture, it would appear that, as the great mass of ice bore down upon this vertical rock, it was broken and knocked over by the moving ice, flaking off at the places of easy cleavage. Thus, according to Professor Blake, the precipice was formed, and thus is explained the dome shaped summits of the mountains there.

First Rows in Paradise.
A Russian correspondent sends us details of a very interesting and amusing tale told by a Russian veterinary surgeon who was sent into the Ural district to buy horses and hay for the peasants of the famine stricken provinces. He had to do mostly with the natives (Kirghiz), who are half savage, but who, nevertheless, were found to be extremely honest and absolutely trustworthy in all buying and selling, some of them even offering to give horses for the starving peasants.

Quite a different story has the surgeon to tell of the Ural Cossacks, who did their level best to cheat him in the most barefaced manner and on whom no reliance was to be placed. And yet these Cossacks are very religious and so simple in certain respects that a swindler succeeded in selling them quite a number of tickets for—paradise! The veterinary surgeon saw several of these tickets, which were marked "First rows" and sold at 25 rubles, back seats bringing considerably less.—Commercial Intelligence.

The Mistake of His Life.
Bluffers—What's wrong today? You look blue.

Bluffers—I'll never forgive myself. I kicked a caller out of my house last night.
"Huh! I kicked many a one. Young fellow, I suppose?"
"No; past middle age."
"Well, these old codgers have no business coming round sparking young girls. I kicked out one of that sort last week."
"Yes, but I've found out that this man wasn't after my daughter; he was after my mother-in-law."—New York Press.

A Proper Question.
"And clothes," argued the missionary further, "are as cheap as dirt!"
The tropic heathen did not conceal her misgivings.
"Yes; but are they as hygienic?" faltered this simple child of the forest.
Her health was quite perfect now, and there was no telling what might not be the effect of corsets and skirts which do not hang from the shoulders, to say nothing of the veils with dots in them.—Detroit Journal.

His Experience.
"Woman's work is never done," quoted the sympathetic citizen.
"That's right," answered Mr. Meekton earnestly. "I have observed it in Henrietta's case. Woman's work is never done. There is always enough of it left over to keep her husband busy from the time he gets through his dinner till he's so tired he has to go to bed."—Washington Star.

A Burning Prayer.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer tells this story of the Virginia backwoods: A white minister after conducting services at a colored church asked an old deacon to lead in prayer. The dusky brother in his fervent appeal asked that a shower of heavenly grace be permitted to fall upon his white friend. He said:
"O Lor, give him de eye of de eagle dat he may spy out our sins afar off! Weld his han's to de gospel plow; tie his tongue to de lines of truf and nail his ear to de gospel pole! An, O Lor, bow his bald way down—an behin' his knees, an his knees way down—ah in some lonesome dark an narrow valley, O Lor, whar much prayer is needed to be made—ah! Den 'noint him ovah wid de blessed ile of de kerosene of salvation, an sot him on fiah wid de match of faith made perfect—amen!"

The Theaters in Japan.

The theaters are the very places to study the Japanese. In many theaters the entire house is divided by rails into square pens 4 by 4 feet, intended for four Japanese, but often containing half a dozen. The men and women are barefoot, walk the narrow dividing rails to reach their reserved "seats." The patrons kneel within these square pens, or, when there are no pens, they squat upon the floor in little circular groups and smoke, eat, drink, fan themselves and chatter. Many come in and go out at random. Children run to and fro. Frequently the spectators bring luncheon and pass the day within the theater, the play continuing uninterrupted.

The stage, which in some theaters revolves to change scenes, has two detached projections three feet wide, extending among the audience. Upon these projections the performers run, reciting and acting.
Their acting is sufficiently curious. A villain slain walks off the stage, a Jap mops with a dirty cloth the chief actor's face while he is speaking. The prompter, dressed all in black, gown, hood and girdle, will follow the actor all around the stage. Other persons, also in black, run to and fro across the stage. Those costumed in black are supposed to be invisible. Stage carpenters and helpers often stand upon the stage and gaze and laugh at the actors, and so on.—Baltimore Sun.

Progression.
"Mary Prim doesn't distribute tracts any more."
"No. I met her the other day, and she smelled dreadfully of peppermint."
"From tracts or extracts, eh?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The driest of all fishes is, perhaps, the river eel, yet, according to an analysis by a German chemist 80 per cent of its substance is water. Salmon comes next, with 61.4 per cent. Lobsters and oysters are four-fifths water.

In a dark corner near the west entrance of Winchester cathedral is a door composed of four pieces of iron grill work, which have the distinction of being the oldest specimens of their kind in England.

There are over 3,000 animals in the London zoological gardens.

Her Begging Scheme.

A respectably dressed old woman apparently in deep distress was noticed standing at the foot of the steps of an elevated railroad station the other day just at the hour when the rush was at its height. The woman had apparently lost something of value. She searched her pockets, shook out her skirts and scanned the ground on every side. Of course it was not long before her distress attracted the notice of passersby. "I have lost my ticket," she said in answer to the query of a man who stopped for a moment in his rush for the train. "I don't know what to do, for I have not a nickel with me and I live away up town."

The man pulled a string of tickets from his pocket, tore off one, handed it to the woman and resumed his rush without waiting for her thanks. But the woman did not follow. She merely moved across to the flight of steps on the other side. Here she resumed her search, with the result that a nickel was transferred to her pocket by a passing woman. Next she crossed the avenue and gathered some more nickels and tickets from the passengers going in the opposite direction, finally returning to her original stand, where her plight attracted as much compassion as before. While the observer was looking on, the woman made two rounds of the stairs, each round occupying about ten minutes. It is probable that her average earnings were at the rate of $2 in nickels and negotiable tickets an hour.—New York Sun.

Room For Him Too.

A bland and patronizing New Yorker was passing through a raw and new hamlet in the west, which its proud founders had dubbed B— City and were sure would soon become a thriving hive of human beings. Addressing a lank and lazy youth who was lounging at the door of one of the rude shanties that passed for a "shoe emporium," the New Yorker inquired sarcastically:

"Who is that important looking gentleman with the red flannel shirt?"

"That's Sam Peters," was the proud reply. "He's just opened the new post-office."

"And the tall person with no collar?"

"He's Long Mike. Just opened a grocery store."

"And the plump individual with the bald head?"

"Handy Jim. Owns the new saloon."

"Indeed?" said the New Yorker. "Your city seems to be pretty well started. I should suppose there was nothing left for a stranger like myself to open."

"Oh, I dunno!" drawled the lanky one. "We ain't got no loanable asylum yet. You might start that."—New York Tribune.

A Cheerful Experience.

"I had a cheerful experience, the other day," remarked a man who had spent several days at one of the springs for rheumatism.

"What was it?" asked the observer.

"I was carried into a depot near the springs and deposited on a seat near an old woman, who looked at me with a complacent smile and inquired, 'Been hurt?'"

"No," I replied.

"Rumtitz?"

"Yes."

"Water do you any good?"

"Not much."

"Well, lots of people come here for the water. The patient returns home, and the papers announce that Mr. So-and-so has returned from the springs much improved by the use of the water; but if you read the papers in a few days you will see that Mr. So-and-so has died and been buried." The conversation was too cheerful to be continued.—Columbus Dispatch.

THE CONTROLLING FORCE OF THE WORLD.

The controlling force of the world has changed from the lords and barons in the old world to the men who direct commerce and those who have money. Wherever there is commerce and money there is a world controlling power. The lords and barons were slow, but very decided in their dominion. The hand of the land-owner was heavy when it descended upon the helpless and dependent. The will of the lord within his sphere of dominion and power was too often cruel and relentless.

The world has changed rulers, and the lords of manors have been supplanted by the men of commerce and money, and the power to control has been transferred to the supplanters, and they now have the seat of power on the earth. There came conditions in time that offered to the oppressed an asylum against the tyranny of the old rulers in remote parts of the earth, and men sought out these places of security and freedom from the cruel power of the lords of the earth.

The bleak shores of New England was a place of refuge sought and secured; Virginia on the James was another, and the Carolinas extended their protecting wings to protect against the blasts of unrestrained power, and when a tyrant had sought out the resting place of freedom from oppression, it had become so strong that the strong arm of force was applied for its defense, and under the war cry given by Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death," liberty by force was secured and remained secure in its power for a hundred years, and during that time the oppressed of all lands sought refuge and a resting place beneath the tree of liberty, secure from the commands of military chiefs and the oppression of lords and barons.

When a change of rulers was made there came a Pharaoh that knew not Joseph, and the work to enslave and oppress began, and the children of the free are now and have been for thirty years making bricks and gathering the straw to make them that are used to build colossal fortunes for their new rulers, and the work is and has been done under the command and direction of the money power.

It is a humiliating view that is given to the mind when the children of the free are aiding in the work to enslave themselves and their fellows, their children and the children of their fellows. The brick making and straw gathering work goes forward to build immense fortunes as a result of the toil of the children of the free, to whom had descended a heritage of freedom, which is the most retrograde movement that any part of the race in its entire history has been known to make, but it is a more humiliating condition, if it is possible, than the first view taken, when the children of the free receive as a recompense for their service the crumbs that fall from their master's table, as the price for work when aiding to enslave themselves and their fellow men.

The new ruler of the earth and its people, which in a combined sense is the money power, is and will be more unmerciful than the ancient lords and barons in the old world. They were restrained by law and the church had an influence in those times that it does not now possess and the inhumanity of individuals did not extend to all.

There was a clause in the old system that gave protection against oppression by the individual lord, and relief, as a rule, was afforded in some form, but the new money power ruler of the earth and its people is not confined to the manor. It is a ruler universal and has neither soul nor body. It exists in organized form and is possessed of organized force, the most cruel the earth has known, and the experience will be bitter to the humane family before relief will come, as matters now appear.

It is strange that men, who are observers of the times and of the conditions that come upon the world, who make it their business to give information respecting changes that effect the relations of the world and society, should conclude that the race is in a transition state when no such condition could come to the race because of natural law that is upon it.

It appears that the purpose and the causes that have secured the opportunity to the purpose of the money power have been overlooked by those who it should be deemed would be first to discover it.

The view taken in this article is upon a supposition that the money power will continue in its present uncontrolled state roaming over the earth like a beast of prey, which it is when applied through its work to the people. It is unbridled power that should be feared, and is uncontrolled power that makes money and the power that it gives an oppressor, and no people now living on the earth have had the experience that the people of Nevada have had because of the uncontrolled power of money.

There is not on the face of the earth a people who have been more fully enslaved by the power of money than the people of Nevada and many of them do not know where their enslavement had its origin.

BOER WAR.

The Boer war continues to develop the fighting powers of the Dutch from the Transvaal. The results so far are decidedly with the Boers. They fight largely on the plan and principle that he who fights and runs away may live to fight another day. They retire and fight again. When they have abandoned a position it seems to have been given up to take another and better position.

At the late battle between the Boers and the British forces commanded by General Gatacre the loss to the British is reported to be seven hundred killed, wounded and prisoners which is an unprecedented loss under the circumstances present when the battle was fought.

It is claimed that the British loss would have been more had it not been for the excellent service of the artillery, which is no more than an admission that battles are won by good fighting.

It is feared in London that the reverse of General Gatacre at Stormberg from which he retreated will have a very disquieting effect upon the Cape Colony Boers, who are in sympathy with the Transvaal Boers.

General Mathuen is reported to be ready to make another attack on the Boer forces that intervene between the British and Kimberly. Mathuen has been re-enforced in guns for work on the Boer trenches. Ladysmith does not seem to be in anybody's way at present.

THE Gazette sang its old McKinley song last evening. The only noticeable difference in the composition is that Providence is linked with McKinley, which is a new departure worthy of note.

The snow storm delighted the small boy. He was omnipresent with his "water-soakers," and used them alike upon rich and poor, white and black, old and young. To venture within range of the lads was to receive it right in the neck.

A number of snow forts were constructed and mimic battles were raging. Travelers from the west reported the snow very little heavier on the summit than here. The storm came from the north.

The Blood Red Banner.

Royal and national colors vary with nations and times; but since Cain slew Abel blood red has been the sign of revolt. In the earliest revolt known to history, when the Persians rose against their king 4,000 years ago, they were led by a blood red banner, and during the riots which took place in Paris the men in the blood red caps were followed by the mob.

A blood red flag waved over Bunker Hill when the Americans fought us for liberty, and it was the emblem of the German peasants in their great uprisings in 1424, 1492 and 1525. Blood red was the color of the trade union flags during the middle ages, and it formed the background of the emblem of the Swiss confederacy in 1315.

Through the whole of French and every other national history those striking in their own ways for liberty have worn the blood red cap and bailed the blood red banner as their leader.

It is a curious fact that never has a monarch chosen it as his color. It has been left sacred to revolutionists.
